

Speaker Biographies

Kelley Glidden is the Director of Community Education and Youth Advocacy for Safe Voices, the domestic violence resource center serving Androscoggin, Franklin and Oxford counties. Kelley has been with Safe Voices for over ten years, and as an educator, she has provided trainings, designed education materials and participated in various community efforts addressing domestic violence. She now oversees the community education and youth advocacy program at Safe Voices, including community and school-based education and prevention, and the Batterer's Intervention Program. She has a B.A. in political science from the University of Maine and a J.D. from the University of Arizona James E. Rogers College of Law.

Sgt. Patrick Hood is a 20 year veteran of the State Police who is currently assigned to the Troop D barracks in Augusta as a patrol Sergeant overseeing the work of seven Troopers. Prior to being promoted in 2011, Sgt. Hood patrolled Knox County for 13 years where he was responsible for criminal investigations and traffic enforcement. Sgt. Hood is an active member of the Maine Council for Elder Abuse Prevention (MCEAP), a longtime member of the Knox County Triad, serves as board member for the Sexual Assault Support Services of Mid-Coast Maine (SASSMM), and is a member of the State Police pipe and drum unit. He resides in the Town of Union with his wife and their 12 year old daughter and 9 year old son.

Joseph Kellner has spent the last 15 years involved in EMS in various roles, beginning as an unlicensed assistant / driver with the University of Maine Volunteer Ambulance Corps. Initially becoming licensed in 2004, he has held several leadership roles with EMS organizations. He is currently employed by Northern Light Home Care and Hospice, a wholly owned subsidiary of Northern Light Health, where he is the Vice President of Emergency Services and Community Programs. Joe also sits on the Maine EMS Board as the chair-elect. Joe completed his undergraduate and graduate work at the University of Maine in Orono. He received his EMT Basic and EMT Intermediate through coursework at Eastern Maine Community College, and he completed his paramedic training at Kennebec Valley Community College. He lives in Windham with his wife, Caitlin; son, Leland; and three-legged golden retriever, Penny.

Sheriff Troy Morton was elected Penobscot County Sheriff in November of 2014, and assumed his new position in January 2015. He is currently the 2nd vice-president of Maine Sheriffs' Association and a member of the MSA Legislative Committee. In 2016, he was appointed to the Maine County Commissioner's Committee representing the Maine Sheriff's Association. Sheriff Morton was also appointed by Governor Paul R. LePage to the Maine Commission on Domestic Assault and Sexual Abuse. Sheriff Morton's career with the Penobscot County Sheriff's Office spans more than 27 years. He started his career in the corrections division, before being promoted to rural patrol, investigations and supervision. During this time, he completed specialized training from the National Institute of Correction, Federal Bureau of Investigation, National Sheriffs' Institute and International Chiefs of Police. Sheriff Morton's continued education includes a degree in criminal justice. He currently serves on several committees focusing on crimes against seniors, mental health and substance abuse and domestic violence.

Erin Salvo is the Associate Director of Adult Protective Services in the Office of Aging and Disability Services – Maine DHHS. Erin joined the Department in 2016 as the Office of Aging and Disability Services' in-house counsel and started in her current role in 2017. Prior to joining the Department, Erin worked as a civil trial attorney in Massachusetts and as a law clerk to the Justices of the Massachusetts Superior Court. Erin graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in marketing. She graduated magna cum laude from New England Law – Boston.

Joseph Zamboni, J.D., M.P.H., M.P.P.M., is currently an Ombudsman at the Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program, focusing on hospital patients. In this position, he facilitates communication between healthcare providers and various state agencies, educates the Maine Legislature and general public about eldercare issues, and responds to complaints about healthcare services. Joseph is adjunct faculty at multiple institutions, including the University of New England, the University of Massachusetts, and Larner Medical School at the University of Vermont. Joseph volunteers his time with the Maine Medical Malpractice Screening Panel, the Maine Financial Abuse Specialist Team, and the Zoning Board of Appeals.